

Kennedy Back To Map Plans For Congress

By KARL R. BAUMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy returned to Washington Friday night for conferences which will bear heavily on the fate of his program in the congressional session opening next week.

The chief executive's big jet landed at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland at 5:56 p.m. EST after a flight of an hour and 38 minutes from West Palm Beach, Fla.

Kennedy left at once for the White House by car.

Mrs. Kennedy and the couple's two children will remain a few days longer at the Palm Beach oceanfront estate where the First Family spent the holidays.

The President plunges Saturday into meetings with congressional leaders he will call on to put through the legislative proposals he will offer the session which begins Wednesday.

Over Weekend
With a few hours out for a political sortie to Ohio Saturday, Kennedy plans to work right through the weekend. Between discussions of legislative strategy, he will meet with his top Berlin lieutenant and his intelligence chief to review foreign problems.

Before leaving Florida Friday, Kennedy visited his ailing-but-improving father, took a boat ride and got an encouraging report on U.S. space progress.

After spending about 20 minutes with Joseph P. Kennedy at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach, Kennedy took Mrs. Kennedy and a few guests for the final cruise of his Florida stay.

From Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson Kennedy heard that the United States achieved a greater rate of progress than any other country in the 1961 space race.

Except for a two-day trip to Bermuda to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Kennedy has been in Palm Beach since Dec. 19 when his 73-year-old father suffered a stroke.

On his final day here, the President continued to get cheering reports on his father's progress in recovering from paralysis.

A friend of the elder Kennedy, Judge Francis T. Morrissey of Boston, was among those calling on him Friday.

Morrissey told newsmen the patient is going home next week.

Army Reaches Quota; Cuts Draft Calls

By JERRY T. BAULCH
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has cut sharply its draft calls for the next two months because it has reached its manpower goals, including personnel to man two new regular divisions ordered activated this week.

The Defense Department announced on Friday a February draft call of 8,000 men and one for March of 6,000, all for the Army. The Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force do not intend to ask the Selective Service for any draftees.

The March figure is the same as that for last July before the threat to Berlin set off quick reinforcement of U.S. military strength. The draft quotas rose to 13,000 in August and hit a peak of 25,000 in September. They have been easing off since.

One big factor in reaching the "strength objective," the department said, was a big jump in voluntary enlistments — a 20 per cent improvement.

Half of the manpower increase during the buildup has come from inductions. This figure does not include the callup of 119,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists in that period.

In the year preceding the buildup draft calls averaged about 5,000 a month. They reached a low earlier this year when the April call was for 1,500 and no calls were issued for May and June.

Army strength at the start of December was 1,062,582, including the National Guardsmen and Reservists called up for a year. The Regular Army thus was about 913,000. Before the buildup began last summer the Army totaled about 870,000.

Nehru Leaves In Huff

Riot Forces Indian Congress To A Halt

PATNA, India (AP)—Many thousands of Indians stormed into a session of India's ruling Congress party Friday and engaged in an uproarious melee that engulfed Prime Minister Nehru. Nehru himself struck a few blows before leaving in a huff.

The disorder broke out during the convention's afternoon session. Nehru had asserted in the morning that one reason India seized Portuguese Goa was to maintain Indian neutrality. For the first time he claimed India's forcible occupation of Goa was partly to prevent its becoming a base for NATO, of which Portugal is a member.

Nehru brushed aside British and American criticism of India's Goa action and asserted India's "policy of peace will continue." But peace was short-lived in the open-sided convention pavilion at this city on the Ganges River 290 miles northwest of Calcutta.

Thousands of uninvited stormed into the afternoon session, many to get a look at the prime minister. One Indian official called the resultant stampede a tribute to Nehru's popularity.

Nehru pleaded for order, to no avail. Then he tried to jump down from the safety of the dais into the unruly crowd, but was restrained by his security men who worry as much about protecting Nehru from his admirers as from his enemies.

Nehru struck out at those holding him, but was finally pacified by his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, and his sister, Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit. Nehru then left the pavilion in a huff. It was the first time in the 67-year history of the Congress Party that a convention session was abandoned.

Several hours after the stampede began the area looked like a battlefield and dust hung in the air. Twenty four persons were hospitalized, officials said, and 12 arrested, including the man with the dagger.

In a one-hour speech at the morning session, Nehru noted that American and British newspapers have criticized his action in Goa.

He said: "These newspapers described me as a double-faced man, a humbug and a hypocrite. They said I was pretending to be an angel of peace on one hand and a tyrant on the other."

The United States, etc., 3rd
The United States and Britain, he said, were angered because "they do not like Asia and Africa moving forward and progressing. They do not like the world changing and changing so fast and so rapidly."

Laotian Shots Played Up As Fierce Battle Action

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Some shots have been fired again in the Laotian civil war and Premier Prince Boun Oum's government issued a communique Friday playing up the action as fierce fighting. Informed Western sources played it down as minor skirmishing.

Communist North Viet Nam was accused anew of reinforcing the neutralist-Pathet Lao rebels behind lines largely dormant since the proclamation of a cease-fire last May. The communique named two North Vietnamese regiments allegedly moved into Xieng Khouang Province.

Western military men, who have taken previous charges of North Vietnamese intervention with several grains of salt, said they had no confirmed evidence of Red reinforcements or any major resurgence of battlefield activity.

The one point of agreement was that there had been trouble, whatever its scope, on the Tha Thom sector southeast of Xieng Khouang.

Western sources reported there was some fighting there, not on any great scale. The government said the rebels launched a violent attack on Tha Thom after Soviet planes dropped them weapons and supplies. By its account, rebel 105mm howitzers fired more than 150 shells at the defenders.

U.S. army officers in the field as observers and U.S. reconnaissance fliers keep in close touch with developments across the jungle kingdom.

The government's communique, its second of an alarmist nature within 24 hours, was authorized by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, pro-Western deputy premier and defense minister whose army has been built up with American help from 25,000 to 70,000 men.

Bank Reports Are Requested

HARRISBURG (AP)—Banking Secretary Robert L. Myers Jr. issued a call Friday for the condition of all state banking institutions as of the close of business on Dec. 30, 1961.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The comptroller of the currency Friday issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business Saturday, Dec. 30.

Similar calls were issued for the same day by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Two Big LA Papers End Publications

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two of Los Angeles' four metropolitan daily newspapers, the morning Examiner and the evening Mirror, said Friday they are ceasing publication.

The 13-year-old Mirror, youngest of the nation's major newspapers, published its last edition Friday afternoon.

The 58-year-old Examiner, one-time headquarters paper of the late publisher William Randolph Hearst, publishes its last on Sunday.

Thus this city of 2½ million, with a metropolitan area population of more than 6½ million, becomes a two-newspaper town.

The surviving papers are the morning Times and the evening Herald-Express.

The Chandler family, owners of both the Times and Mirror, called the Mirror's demise a consolidation. The Times will continue to be called the Times and will continue daily and Sunday publication.

The Hearst family, owners of both the Examiner and Herald-Express, said the Herald-Express starting next Monday will be known as the Herald-Examiner, and will add a Sunday edition.

The death of two papers is the largest publishing cutback in a major city in modern times. There has been a steady attrition of the nation's newspapers, but never have two major publications in the same city folded simultaneously.

The announcements were made to employees at staff meetings, and to the public in Friday's editions of the Mirror and Examiner. At the Examiner, copy reader Nat Honig, president of the employees union, walked into the city room after a meeting with C. T. Griffiths, business manager, and read the announcement to a silent audience of reporters and desk men.

Randolph A. Hearst, president of the Hearst Publishing Co., said in the announcement: "The conditions which force the Examiner to cease publication are the same conditions that have resulted in the demise of many other well-known newspapers throughout the country. Costs have risen far more rapidly than revenue. Continuing losses, with no foreseeable change in the trend, make discontinuance of the Examiner an economic necessity."

Climaxing weeks of rumors, President Norman Chandler of the parent Times-Mirror Co. called Mirror employees together Friday morning and gave them the first official word of the end. Tears in his eyes, he said: "The Mirror is being combined with the Los Angeles Times. This is the most difficult and heart-rending statement I have ever had to make."

"In recent years the Times-Mirror Co. management has studied different ways to try and answer both the heavy financial losses of the Mirror and yet carry on its reason for being as a metropolitan paper."

"By consolidating the newspapers the company will avoid further serious losses resulting from operation of the Mirror."

The number of employees affected on the Mirror and Examiner was not disclosed. Several hundred reportedly are involved. Many departments on both the Hearst and Chandler papers have long been consolidated.

'62 Missile Program Off To Good Start

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States got its 1962 missile test-firing program off to a good start Friday, sending one of its vital new weapons, the push-button Minuteman, on a 3,200-mile flight after launching it from an underground pit.

The three-stage Minuteman sent the first big noise of the new year rumbling over the Cape as it burst from the 85-foot-deep silo with a rush of smoke and flame and streaked to its target.

Officials termed it a "hot flight" in which the missile was subjected to maximum temperatures and aerodynamic loads. The Air Force reported the rocket performed without a hitch in registering its third straight successful flight after a subterranean firing.

The Air Force and the Boeing Co., the systems manager, now are expected to accelerate the test-firing program in a drive to have Minuteman operational by mid-summer. Earlier Friday, intelligence sources in Washington estimated that the Soviet Union trails the United States by about six months in developing an advanced solid-propellant ICBM like the Minuteman.

Upcoming tests here gradually will increase the range of the missile to its intended combat reach of 6,300 miles.

The first 10 underground launching pads for the Minuteman have been completed at Malstrom Air Force Base, Mont. These steel and concrete-lined structures will protect the missile from all but a direct nuclear hit.

Freezing Rain Covers Roads In Poconos

FREEZING rain covered the Poconos with ice yesterday, slowing vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

State Police at all four area sub-stations — Milford, Fern Ridge, Mt. Pocono and Stroudsburg — reported highways slippery and hazardous. Fog in some areas increased the driving hazards.

More of the same is forecast for today. The Weather Bureau at Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport at Avoca last night called for sleet and freezing rain changing to rain today. The high will be about 32 to 36.

Games Postponed
Yesterday's storm caused the postponement of at least four basketball games and curtailment of regular schedules for some school students.

The storm started in the afternoon, but Pocono Mountains Jointure released its pupils at noon as the result of the advisory on the weather.

At a late hour last night, several traffic accidents were attributable to the storm. A tractor-trailer loaded with milk jackknifed and left the road near Hawley. There were no injuries, but damage was estimated at $25,000 to $30,000.

The Monroe County office of the State Highways Dept. reported it had 34 trucks, one shovel, six loaders, 12 pickups and 87 men working at cinder-ing roads.

Canadensis Youth Hurt Critically

RONALD Van Why, 19, of Seese Hill, Canadensis, was in critical condition early this morning in the Monroe County General Hospital after his car crashed into a truck last night at 9 p.m. on Route 196 near the Norway House.

Police said the driver of the truck, Jack Brandt, 57, of Moosic, received injuries to his chest. He was treated at the scene of the accident by a local doctor and then continued home.

Van Why was traveling south on Route 196 and Brandt was headed north. The impact of the crash drove the truck through the guard rails and down a slight embankment before it came to a halt. The Van Why car came to rest on the right side of the highway.

State Police investigating the accident said "It appears that Van Why was traveling at a high rate of speed."

The truck was empty at the time of the accident but is usually loaded with dynamite and blasting caps as the State Police said.

Van Why's car is a total loss and damage to the truck is estimated by State Police at $1,000.

State Police will continue the investigation today.

Bing Crosby Undergoes Operation

By JAMES BACON

AP Movie-TV Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Bing Crosby lost two lima bean-sized kidney stones via surgery Friday. The trouble flared up, by coincidence, after a night of doing the Twist.

Bing, 57, suffered his first kidney stone attack in six years on Dec. 22, shortly after doing the new dance madness at a San Francisco party.

But his doctors agreed that not even the wild pelvic gyrations of the Twist could have activated Bing's stones.

The crooner came through the two-hour, 20 minute operation fine, said Dr. Frederick Schlumfeger. It was the third of his kind he performed on Bing. The others were in 1962 and 1965.

Crosby's pretty wife, actress Kathy Grant, who waited in his hospital room through the operation, said afterward: "When Bing had to be rushed to the hospital in San Francisco, we had been at a party doing the Twist."

"Bing can Twist better than any of his young sons."

Dr. Schlumfeger said of the surgery, "It's an operation that becomes increasingly difficult every time."

Probe Ends; SEC To Take Action

American Exchange Is Accused Of Abusing Laws

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Stock Exchange was accused by federal investigators Friday of permitting "manifest and prolonged abuses" of laws and rules designed to protect the investing public.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, capping a seven-month investigation of the nation's second largest stock exchange, issued a 127-page report which contended the exchange has been dominated by a four-man oligarchy.

It said the dominant group has included Joseph F. Reilly, who currently heads the exchange as president pro tem.

Sharp Attack
A broad sampling of exchange members—and even the SEC itself—came in for sharp criticism in what was perhaps the most explosive report ever issued by the 27-year-old commission.

At a news conference, Milton H. Cohen, director of the probe, indicated the SEC will take action against some of those cited as responsible for alleged abuses.

There is "certainly some possibility of action," Cohen said, against Gilligan, Will & Co., whose activities occupied many pages of the report.

The report noted that some or all the questioned activities were "not unique" to Gilligan, Will & Co., but Cohen declined to speculate whether the probe to date would result in a whole series of SEC actions.

There may have been criminal violations in the activities studied, Cohen said, but he added he had no responsibility for such follow-ups under the terms of his investigation.

Known As Amex

In a letter transmitting copies of the report to officials of the American Stock Exchange, known to Wall Streeters as the Amex, the SEC said: "It will be evident from a reading of the report that it raises serious questions for the commission and for the exchange community, and calls for prompt and vigorous action."

Reilly, who has agreed not to seek re-election as chairman of the Amex board of governors and as president pro tem, said he had not seen the report and added in New York: "There will be no comment from the American Stock Exchange at this time. We must first receive the report. We must then devote considerable time to a thorough study of its contents."

The SEC report accused the exchange of tolerating lax management and said that if it does not act quickly to adopt broad reforms "the commission must be prepared to exercise its supervisory powers."

Backing up the report were massive files—still secret—which were compiled by the SEC in its hush-hush inquiry.

These files are being studied, the commission told the exchange, "to determine what action by the commission is required."

Implicit in many of the report's disclosures was a hint of official proceedings later against a number of exchange members.

The investigation was prompted by an SEC finding last May that two prominent Amex "insiders," Jerry and Gerard Re, had engaged in multiple manipulations and illegal stock sales totaling more than $10 million. The Res, father and son, were ordered expelled by the SEC and now are awaiting grand jury action on federal criminal charges.

Amex officials have contended that the wrongdoings attributed to the Res were isolated violations. But the report prepared by the SEC staff said: "The manifold and prolonged abuses by specialists and floor traders and other instances of misconduct described in this report make it clear that the problem goes beyond isolated violations and amounts to a general deficiency of standards and a fundamental failure of controls."

Gunning in for particular criticism were some of those who had managed the exchange, certain specialists who conduct daily auctions in various securities, and a number of floor traders who use their Amex memberships to speculate with their own funds.

Six Western Penna. Banks Affected By Firm's Losses

RIDGWAY, Pa. (AP)—Six western Pennsylvania banks were among the investors who lost money in the multi-million dollar bankruptcy of four St. Marys finance companies, a state official said Friday.

Frank J. Saunders, an examiner for the State Securities Commission told a shareholders meeting that some $378,000 was dropped by the banks, including $242,000 by the Commonwealth Trust Co., of Pittsburgh.

Saunders said the other banks are the Farmers & Merchants Bank of St. Marys, $40,000; St. Marys National Bank, $25,000; St. Marys Trust Co., $25,000; Clearfield (Pa.) Trust Co., $24,000; and Emporium (Pa.) Trust Co., $22,000.

Saunders also said that none of the bankrupt firms had been registered with the State Securities Commission. He said the four companies did not own licenses as stock dealers, agents or salesmen. James T. Flannigan, an examiner for the State Banking Department, told the shareholders that three of the companies are completely insolvent. He said only investors in the St. Marys Finance

Weathermen Predicting Huge Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A deepening storm swept central sections of the nation with cold fury and gathered for a drive northeastward Friday.

Predicting local snow accumulations up to 10 inches in the Midwest, the Weather Bureau said: "There are a number of indications that it will become a dangerous and extremely hazardous full-blown midwinter storm as it moves northeastward from Arkansas toward the Ohio Valley in the next 24 to 36 hours."

The tempest had high winds, rain, sleet, freezing rain, and bitter cold air.

Before midnight, Emporia, Kan., received six inches of snow. Chillicothe in the Texas Panhandle had five inches whipped by 73-mile wind blasts which cut visibility to zero for a time.

A mass of subzero air which dropped temperatures to -19 at Bemidji, Minn., and -17 at Grand Forks, N.D., also fed superchilled winds into the disturbance from the north at up to 50 m.p.h.

Snow and sleet whipped by 66-mile winds spread a blinding band across Oklahoma, snarling traffic and forcing school closings.

Road hazards were created as cold air spread freezing rain and sleet to coat highways with ice. Much of Lower Michigan and a swath across central Wisconsin had slick pavements. Traffic slipped to a standstill in some sections, including the Lansing, Mich., area. There were many accidents.

Southern Parts

South of the snow and sleet, rainstorms drenched parts of Louisiana and Mississippi. McComb, Miss., measured three inches of rainfall. There was thunder in the mid-South and the Weather Bureau forecast possible tornado action.

The storm shook snow over east-central Kansas, southern Iowa, northern Missouri and western portions of Illinois and Wisconsin. In northwestern Wisconsin, winds piled snow into drifts.

Icy conditions prevailed also in the Northeast, where intense cold went to 11 below zero at Greenville, Maine, early Friday.

Snow fell over much of Maine and there was freezing precipitation over parts of Pennsylvania and New York state. Glazing conditions were in prospect along the eastern coastal strip from New England to New Jersey during the night.

At noon, temperatures held well below zero in northern Minnesota, but the 80 mark was reached in southern Florida, and there were pleasant 60s in the Southeast.

In midcontinent, the freezing line dipped into Texas.

Sunny skies predominated in the West, except the western Washington area, but temperatures were on the cool side.

Shortway Bid Is Received

HARRISBURG (AP)—Unofficial low bids of nearly $9 million were received Friday on 16 projects, the highways department reported.

It included interstate projects in Luzerne and Columbia counties.

A low bid on a section of the Anthracite Expressway in Pittston Twp., between Yatesville and Dupont was submitted by No. 1 Contracting Corp. of Penna., and Delaware, West Pittston. It was for $1,583,174.

The other project is on the Keystone Shortway and involves construction of 32 piers for a bridge over the Susquehanna River between Millville and Limerick, Coopersmith Bros., Inc., Phillipsburg, N.J., submitted the unofficial low bid of $329,167.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 32:34; Deuteronomy 5:1-21; Matthew 5:1-20.

Moses, after leading God's chosen people out of their bondage in Egypt, ascends Mt. Sinai, where God gives him stone tablets of His laws. Descending, Moses finds the people worshipping an idol, a golden calf which he destroys in wrath.—Exodus 32:1-20.

Returning to the mountain top, Moses intercedes for his people, begging God's forgiveness. The Lord, descending in a cloud, rewrites His Ten Commandments on two stone tablets, replacing those broken by Moses in his wrath.—Exodus 34:1-28.

With the new tablets under his arms, Moses descends the mountain once more. After the 40 days and nights he spent there learning from God, Moses' face shines from having confronted the Almighty. This frightens the people.—Exodus 34:29-31.

Many years later, God's Son reaffirms the validity of His Father's Ten Commandments in His Sermon on the Mount. He says He has not come to abolish the law but to fulfill it.—Matthew 5:1-20.

Religion Today:

Man Created In The Image Of God

By JULES LOH

AP Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I am grateful that I was born a member of the minority," reflects a Jewish philosopher. "I would otherwise have to learn to be one."

This aphoristic assessment of what it means to be a Jew is offered by Prof. Abraham Kaplan of the University of California, one of a score of Jewish intellectuals who have contributed to a symposium conducted by the quarterly "Judaism."

To Kaplan, the experience of possessing a "minority religion" (which he distinguishes from a "religion of a minority") has shaped his ideal of social justice.

"I see at (Judaism's) core the conception that man was created in the image of God," he writes.

"To me, this means brotherhood and equality, and the inestimable worth of each human being as the ground of moral and social values."

Sculptor Leonard Baskin of Smith College sees in Judaism "the miraculous facility to wear bloodstain with honor" and also refers to the Jews' minority status as "our chief treasure."

S. Michael Gelber, New York author, offers another point of view: "If it is intolerance that makes men remain Jews," he says, "then an expansion of tolerance should bring about the diminution of Judaism."

For Gelber's part, the meaning of Judaism is "to feel for one's fellow man, to despise only evil, and to face life's frustrations and challenges with courage."

Gelber expands this by saying that Judaism teaches "more than compassion," not sympathy for your fellow man exactly, but "the satisfaction gained from one's neighbors' mere existence;" and also teaches "less than hate," the focusing of hostility never toward a person but always "toward evil, and evil alone;" and finally, "restitutive courage," which implements the desire for more than compassion and makes it possible to harbor less than hate.

Philosophy lecturer Lionell Rubloff of York University contends on the other hand, "The essence of Jewishness is religious faith, not sociological behavior." He says the "historic duty of the Jewish people is to... survive in order that the Messianic promise of God to man will be fulfilled."

The symposium, which observes the 10th anniversary of the journal, also dealt with such topics as the American Jew's outlook on the state of Israel, the future of Jewish traditions, and others.

"Because I am a Jew," writes Irwin Weil of Brandeis University, "I consider myself linked very strongly to all other Jews in the world."

Prof. Kaplan says he, too, has this "feeling of kinship," but that it doesn't pose a question of divided loyalties between America and Israel — a dilemma some Jews have felt.

"What I feel for my mother," writes Kaplan, "does not make me unfaithful to my wife."

SUNDAY from 7:30 to 8 a.m., a

Christian Science program will be broadcast by Station WCAU Philadelphia, in their radio "Church of the Air." The subject of the program is "HOW CAN I HELP THE WORLD SITUATION?"

The program brings out that the answer to this question lies right within the sphere of each person's own activities where he can correct and uplift his thoughts of himself, his neighbors, his world.

By letting his own actions be governed by God, divine Love, he is giving effective support to those who are bending every effort to bring peace, righteous government and prosperity to a troubled world.

Today's Lesson:

Laws For Living

By N. Speer Jones

IN THE first quarter of the year 1962 we shall be studying the general topic, "Jesus and the Ten Commandments."

The opening lesson, quite naturally, introduces the subject matter, placing the Ten Commandments in their historical setting and pointing out their relationship to Christ and His teachings for us, His followers.

Actually, the first record we have of the Ten Commandments is not included in today's lesson. God's laws have already been given to the Israelites in Exodus 20, at the very beginning of their sojourn at Sinai, whence God has led them after their flight from Egypt.

Then God called Moses up to the top of hallowed Mt. Sinai, while the rest of the Israelites waited at the foot, and in a voice of thunder spoke the Ten Commandments for the first time.

In Exodus 24:12, God promised Moses that He would write His commandments for the people on stone tablets, so Moses could teach them better. Just before our lesson opens (Exodus 31:18), He fulfills this promise.

While Moses is still atop Mt. Sinai with God, receiving the tablets the Israelites whom God and Moses have been striving so hard to enlighten become restless for their old unholy way of life.

The calf of gold fashioned by Aaron in response to their demand for "a golden image" is everyone's individual responsibility in the world today.

Bernard C. Berry, Christian Science Committee on Publication for Pennsylvania, will be the speaker. Musical selections on the program have been pre-recorded by Frederick Jagel, soloist of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. accompanied by Ruth Barrett Phelps at the organ of The Mother Church.

personification, as it were, of their desire for the easy way out—a primitive religion demanding only ritualistic observance. It does not demand, as Judaism and Christianity do, a training of the soul, an inward ritual which transforms the individual.

This idol is thought by most scholars to have been a yearling ox; ox-worship had been encountered and succumbed to by many of the Israelites during their bondage in Egypt.

After Moses, in his anger at his people, smashes the Lord's tablets, God offers to write them for him again if Moses provides the tablets. This time Moses remains on Mt. Sinai with the Lord for 40 days and 40 nights, as he did one other time. There is an interesting parallel here with the time Jesus spent in the wilderness.

The parallel is seen again in Moses' transfiguration from speaking with the Lord (Exodus 34:29-35), on another mountain top in God's presence (Matthew 17:1-13, Luke 9:28-36, etc.).

Nearly 40 years after God gave Moses the laws at Mt. Sinai, Moses reviews the incident "for his people," then on the plains of Moab. (Deuteronomy 5:1-21).

When Jesus arrives on earth, He hastens to reaffirm once more God's original commandments to Moses. (See Matthew 5:1-20). In His famous Sermon on the Mount (again the important symbolism of the mountain), He makes it plain that He "came not to destroy the law or the prophets," for the Old Testament is indeed the Word of God.

NOTE TO ushers—please don't put the BIG ones in the seat next to the aisle. Everyone has to squeeze, tug, and scrape to bypass the obstacle. Put the slim ones in first and then "passing" is accomplished with a minimum of stress and strain. Sleep is less likely too, the exercise may be too tiring for some.

Ushers shouldn't be so happy either. I have seen a coin change like magic into a dollar bill under the baleful stare of an unsmiling usher.

A newspaperman, who shall remain nameless, took out his press card and whispered "Press" when the collection plate was passed in his direction.

Did you know that newspapermen are mentioned in the Bible? They are. Look up St. Mark chapter 2 verse 4. "And when they could not come nigh unto Him for the press, they uncovered the roof where He was."

Many members of a church can't seem to be able to tithe yet they can always "get up" enough money for the country club dues. Think, my friend, before that "hole-in-one" becomes "one-in-hole". Better pay up those Space Club dues.

Way back in the old days, ushers had another chore to do, after collection, they stood and watched the congregation for "sleepers".

When one snore mixed in with the sermon the poor dozzler was rapped hard on the top of his head with the usher's staff.

This weapon against the devil, was composed of a nine foot stout pole with a hard wrapped end, much akin to the modern boxing glove.

"POW" and the startled sinner was awakened, the faithful were amused, and the minister droned on, and on, and on.

Couldn't we bring this practice back? There would be no problem recruiting men of the church to fill usher jobs.

On second thought, my head is tender!

Do you want to read the Dead Sea Scrolls? You may get the opportunity. Dr. Awni Dajani, director of the Jordan Antiquities Department recently announced that the Scrolls may be exhibited in museums throughout the world.

King Hussein of Jordan had issued a ban on exporting any of the scrolls, this however, has now been lifted.

Don't be too surprised if you hear young people of school age talking about "Cat Class". This is their way of saying Catechism class. No matter how they say it, it's a very good thing that young folks are learning what they believe in, and why they do.

Too many believe that they are of their parent's faith as a matter of course. It doesn't work that way. Your religion is a personal bond between you and God. You can't get to Heaven riding up your parent's coat-tails, it's up to you to know your faith, and forevermore work at it.

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

What is she thinking about, as she watches the flickering candle flame? There is a far away look in her eyes that makes one wonder. Yet, if she were offered a penny for her thoughts, she would probably only shrug and say, "Oh, nothing," in that maddening little way children have.

Watching her absorbed in her reverie is like an illustration of how closed one mind is from another. No one can ever know completely what another person is thinking. A thought expressed out loud all too often leaves something out of the telling. And most thoughts are never expressed at all.

Even should we wish to, we cannot entirely share our minds with one another. But we can share them with God. In the Church we can find the way to tell Him all our hopes, our fears, our loves, our angers, our pride, our pain.

Go to church this Sunday—and turn your own thoughts into prayer.

Noble Idea, But . . .

Mayor Wagner of New York City has uttered an earnest plea to unions of his city to help the low-paid worker. He suggested that those who already receive high wages go easy in demanding more, and help the low-paid to improve their lot.

This is a noble thought, even if the unions cannot be expected to take it very seriously. But there isn't much wisdom in it.

The difference between the low-paid and the high-paid worker is usually a difference in real worth to our society. The man and woman who works and studies to acquire a skill that serves our highly technical needs expects to be paid for doing so, and he should. It is unreasonable to expect him to be happy with a wage or salary little or better than that paid to those of less skill.

When pay scales are equalized, the incentive for men and women to learn skills is lessened. And fewer will take the trouble. So we would have an even greater shortage of skilled workers than we do, and more of the unskilled for whom it is already hard to find employment. Even the communists have learned this lesson, despite their creed:

"From each according to his ability, to each according to his needs."

The laborer is worthy of his hire, says the Bible. And there must be a relationship between what he creates and what he is paid for doing so. If there is not, who would hire him?

When the cost of unskilled labor rises, employers hunt around for machines, often quite simple, that will lessen the need for expensive low-skill labor. Often the choice is to do so or quit business.

Even strong unions cannot long prevent this principle from operating. No matter how strong a union, it cannot push an employer beyond the point at which he can profitably hire labor. Either the employer must raise prices, or cease operation. If the buyers won't pay the higher prices, there is no choice left and the jobs disappear.

People earn low pay as individuals. Each of us can raise his own pay by becoming more valuable. Training facilities can help. But there is an incredible amount of mischief in the notion that we can be richer by paying disproportionately to those who contribute least at the expense of those who contribute most.

Teacher Requirements

Somewhat astounding — or at least at first blush it might seem astounding — is the recommendation of Pennsylvania's school chief that college entrance requirement for teachers be made higher than those for liberal arts students.

"We're having a hard enough time as it is trying to round up enough teachers," might well be the first reaction of many a schoolman and many a lay person.

It is true that finding qualified teachers is somewhat of a problem — but most certainly nothing like it was only a few short years ago. The gap is gradually being filled and the scarcity today is nothing compared with a few short years ago.

While this may be a factor to consider, the important point seemingly would be that with higher teacher standards, it almost obviously would follow that we would have better teachers in our public schools.

This is not to say that we don't have them now. We do, thank goodness, but the possibility most certainly is ever present that with higher standards, the higher the grade teacher—and the better the end results, the student.

Dr. Charles H. Boehm, Pennsylvania's Superintendent of Public Instruction, perhaps best summed up the theme when he said:

"Students who expect to teach should have above average academic ability and a strong motivation for higher academic achievement."

But he added somewhat significantly:

"More students of ability will select teaching as a career because of the higher status compared to those of low ability who will be rejected."

It's certainly worth thinking about anyway.

Why You--Not Me?

In a period of constant revolution, the orderly processes of change of government disappear. Kings are succeeded by sons or daughters in prescribed order; Presidents are elected by the people in accordance with Constitutional procedure. But revolutions throw up governments. Whoever can seize power holds it until someone comes along and establishes himself in power.

The rule of thumb is: Why you—not me? Thus Hitler deprived Hindenburg of lawful authority. True, Hitler was elected but there was no realistic opposition just as Soviet Russia and all revolutionary countries reject the test of opposition.

The people really have no voice; they are either dominated by an organized mob or by troops. In a revolution, the voice of the people is loud and harsh at the start, but it soon melts away into a frightened whisper.

In 1917, the call of the revolution was loud in Russia. It was the people's voice and the people moved about shouting and instructing. In 1918, however, it was no longer the people's voice; it had become the party's authority.

The dictatorship of the proletariat had seized power. By 1919, the dictatorship remained but the proletariat had been reduced to a frightened mass. It so remained for 40 years. What it is now, beggars description.

In China, there has been no orderly government since 1950 when the T'aipei Rebellion upset the authority of the Manchus.

Dynasty. However, the Manchus continued somehow to reign, although they no longer ruled.

The Westerners had moved in by way of the sea, the Russians overland from Siberia, Japan by way of Korea and Manchuria; the Boxer Rebellion further weakened authority; then came the 1912 Revolution and the 1915 Revolution and the attempted establishment of the Republic.

But the Republic was never a republic. It was never a government. Rather it was a congeries of independent provinces, managed by warlords who often grouped together.

Soon, powerful warlords were killing weaker warlords and some of them made deals with foreign countries.

For instance, a character called Little Hsu organized the Anti League of warlords and made separate deals with the Japanese which started China rolling into new troubles. By 1920, China no longer was a nation but was an area dominated by fighting warlords.

Why you—not me? Whoever was able to seize territory or finance an army exercised power. The masses rose in revolt in 1925 through one of the accidents in history when an Indian policeman employed by the Shanghai Municipal Council shot a Chinese worker. Thus came the Communist revolution, not made by Communists at all, but by an angry people who wanted the British, French, Americans, Japanese to cease participating in their affairs.

Sun Yat-sen, an idealist, wanted to create a democratic republic and really tried to establish such a government in Canton in 1925, but Sun died and who was to take his place? You or me? There was not much arguing.

Chiang Kai-shek had the troops and Russian support. So Wang Ching-wei and Hu Han-min, who were the more logical successors, ran away from physical power and that was the end of the democratic republic. Chiang took power and held it.

It soon became a contest between Chiang and the warlords with Russia and Japan playing such roles as they could until World War II determined that the Russians would dominate China and establish a Communist government, headed by a soldier who has disappeared from the scene and a professor, Mao Tse-tung, who managed to become a master of men.

Why Mao? Why not? Does it really matter who takes over a government. In the disorders of revolution, whoever can manage to establish himself is the master. Thus in Cuba, there is Castro, a figure who lied himself into power, who knew how to manipulate Americans and get aid from Soviet Russia.

Or in India, there is Nehru, nominally the successor to Gandhi, a figure of a noble idealist, whose eyes turn inward as he speaks to himself in profound thought and plays the same game as Nasser and Tito.

Grab what there remains a chance, for who can resist the one who is powerful and wily enough to grab. That is the rule of revolution and whoever follows this rule usually survives — or perhaps survives a little longer than his predecessor.

Mirror of Time

10 Years Ago

Two New Jersey women were treated for injuries they received after their car rolled over on Effort Mountain on ice covered Route 115.

How many remember in 1952 when the old barn in back of Wyckoff's Department Store was damaged by fire?

Sammy Tucker, eight-year-old of Henryville was injured slightly while sliding near his home. He was struck by a car operated by a neighbor.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College was second in the 14-team teachers college basketball conference.

20 Years Ago

East Stroudsburg was having a mumps epidemic. There were also several cases of measles and chicken pox reported.

Jack Dempsey joined the armed service to take another crack at the Germans.

Chief of Police Arthur Swink reported that $39 was collected in fines for the year of 1941.

Ernest M. Epright received his aviator's wings from the U. S. Navy Air Corps.

Washington — Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa, will be the next chairman of the Republican Policy Committee — if he can retain his present lead.

Hickenlooper now has a 4-vote margin over Senator Leverett Saltonstall, Mass.

A careful poll by Senator Karl Mundt, S. D., gives Hickenlooper an 18 to 14 edge over Saltonstall, with four Republican senators still "undecided."

This group will determine the close contest.

Both candidates are striving furiously to line up this uncommitted bloc. Hickenlooper's supporters claim they already have won over one of the four, but are not being specific.

The Allen-Scott Report

Hickenlooper Seen As Republican Policy Head

According to one backstage report, Saltonstall's backers are trying to get former President Eisenhower to throw his weight behind the New Englander. But it is highly doubtful that he will. Hickenlooper's partisans are quite confident the former President will keep hands off this strictly party contest.

Saltonstall now heads the Senate Republican Conference, Hickenlooper, who out-ranks Saltonstall in seniority, is the senior GOP member on the Joint Atomic Committee and second-ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee.

Something new and highly significant is being added to the much-discussed Alliance for Progress.

It's a "counter-insurgency" program — under which Latin American countries receiving U. S. economic aid can also obtain special training units and weapons to combat Communist guerrillas and subversion.

These crack U.S. training units will not engage in fighting. Their sole purpose is to train local forces in anti-guerrilla warfare.

Already a number of Latin American countries are considering this latest plan.

Foremost among them are Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador and Guatemala. Personal representatives of President Kennedy are in these countries discussing this new military program to counter Communist subversion and guerrillas.

A major problem still undecided is whether this program should be extended to anti-Castro Cuban forces being organized in a half-dozen Latin American countries.

Some 3,500 Cubans are training in Colombia and an equal number in Guatemala.

They are urgently seeking U.S. military assistance, and influential Pentagon authorities strongly favor that. However, no decision is deemed likely until after the Pan American foreign ministers conference later this month.

Breaking The Logjam — The "counter-insurgency" program is similar to the special U.S. military aid being given Communist-periled South Vietnam.

Elite Army and Air Force teams are training South Vietnamese forces in anti-guerrilla tactics and combat. For this purpose, the U. S. is equipping them with special weapons, such as helicopters, light planes, highly mobile vehicles, plastic boats, and powerful arms adapted to jungle fighting.

Significantly, the "counter-insurgency" addition to the Alliance for Progress program is an outgrowth of the recent reshuffling of the President's staff.

Dr. Walt Whitman Rostow, special White House assistant who was shifted to the State Department to head the Policy Planning Council, opposed this military program. Instead, he favored organizing anti-guerrilla training and fighting units under the United Nations.

As a result of Rostow's views, nothing was done about this increasingly critical problem as long as he was in the White House.

When he was moved to the State Department, the President turned the matter over to General Maxwell Taylor, his special military adviser. Then things began to happen—both in South Vietnam and Latin America.

General Taylor gave the Army the job of developing a comprehensive "counter-insurgency" program, with special priority to South Vietnam and Latin America. General George Decker, Army Chief of Staff, personally took charge of that and has pushed it vigorously and effectively.

Much has been accomplished both in the Far East and in Latin America that cannot be divulged for the present.

But it can be stated that forceful measures are being taken to fight the Communists with their own tactics. Guerrilla warfare is ceasing to be a Red monopoly. It's being turned against them for the preservation of freedom and democracy.

Helping Hand — Three U. S. allies are offering valuable military aid to South Vietnam in its desperate struggle against Communist guerrillas and subversion.

They are Britain, Thailand and Nationalist China.

The proffers from Britain and Thailand have been accepted. That of Nationalist China is still under consideration.

South Vietnam is eager to get the latter's military assistance. But Britain and other pro-Western countries with diplomatic ties with Red China are objecting, and the matter is in abeyance.

Meanwhile, a team of British guerrilla warfare experts has arrived in South Vietnam for training purposes. Heading this elite unit is Brigadier General R. G. K. Thompson, who commanded the anti-guerrilla forces that drove the Communists out of Malaya.

No announcement has been made of this crack British training unit at London's request — again because of Britain's diplomatic and trade relations with Peking.

Thailand also has sent a training group of tough anti-guerrilla troops to Saigon. As in the case of U. S. and British training forces, the Thai unit will do no fighting; primarily instruct.

President Kennedy also has sent a personal message to other U. S. allies urging aid to South Vietnam. He particularly proposed economic and technical assistance to improve the mobility and communications of the South Vietnamese forces. Both are urgently needed for effective anti-guerrilla warfare.

Japan is authoritatively understood to be considering supplying economic and technical aid. That is being discussed with President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The Philippines and Malaya also have signified intention to help.

Nibble For Your Heart

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

You aren't so much what you eat as how you eat—and how much! Fats on the dinner table aren't half as dangerous as those extra pounds you carry around.

Shrink your portions. Seconds never taste as good as the original serving, anyway. One egg tastes as good as two—one slice like the whole loaf.

Mom was right when she warned that nibbling between meals would spoil your appetite. Light snacks help control weight. When you're hungry as a horse at mealtimes, you eat like one.

Chickens nibble one-third less feed than their barnyard brethren who have to wait for the dinner bell. A 6-times-a-day formula satisfies adult appetites with fewer calories than regular meals.

Heart Damage

Skippy breakfasts and lunches may hurt your heart.

Harvard nutrition expert Dr. Frederick J. Stare suggests returning to the old-fashioned hearty breakfast, noon-time dinner and light supper. That way, you won't go to bed with unburned fat circulating through your blood stream.

Exercise burns calories and though you sit at a desk all day, you can still walk. And push a lawnmower!

Don't forget Junior's bicycle, either, when the weather permits.

In Ireland, men eat more—and more saturated fats—than their Boston brothers. Still, the Irish weigh less, have less fat in their circulation and suffer less high blood pressure than the Boston Irish.

No One Drives

In Ireland everyone walks or cycles. No one drives down to the corner store.

Even in the jungle, certain heavy monkeys show a special vulnerability to hardening of the arteries and heart trouble.

Keep your weight down, even if you have to nibble all the time. Don't be a monkey yourself!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

About Town

By Gene Brown

Long Journey

A businessman hired an English secretary for his New York office just before taking off on a business trip to Great Britain. After he left, an associate in Atlanta telephoned him.

The English girl asked if the caller would speak with someone else since the boss was in the United Kingdom.

There was a long pause at the other end of the line. "This is terrible," the caller finally blurted. "It is too late to send flowers."

A head of the game: Jim returned from a safari up the Amazon with a good supply of shrunken native heads he'd bought. He decided to try to sell them.

Calling up the largest department store in the city, he asked the operator, "To whom do I speak about selling some shrunken heads?"

"One moment sir," she replied. A business-like voice crackled over the line: "Head buyer speaking."

A brash American soprano made her debut at the famous opera house in Milan. The applause was so tumultuous that she had to sing her big aria seven times. She then blew kisses to the audience and announced tearfully, "You've made me the happiest girl in all the world. But I'm exhausted I can give you no more encores." From the top balcony came a stern voice: "You'll go right on singing that aria till you get it right!"

Misunderstood

The husband-and-wife argument had reached its height. "I wish I'd taken mother's advice and never married you!" the wife sobbed bitterly.

"Do you mean to say that your mother tried to stop you marrying me?"

She nodded. "Good Lord," the husband whispered. "How I've wronged that woman."

Salt and Battery

A police report for an Eastern paper noted that a certain desk sergeant occasionally wrote "S & B" after a prisoner's name on the blotter. So one night he asked what the letters stood for. Replied the matter-of-fact sergeant: "Salt and Battery."

Good night, Antonio. Good night, Jawaharial.

Bennett Cerf

Try and Stop Me

George Romney tells about the guest of honor at a banquet who discovered at the last moment that his upper plate had cracked. "You'll have to cancel my speech," he told the toastmaster. "Nonsense," said the latter. "Here's a spare upper I have in my pocket."

The guest of honor inserted the plate in his mouth, and essayed a few words with disastrous results. "No good," he announced, pulling out the plate. "It doesn't fit."

Like a magician taking rabbits out of a hat, the toastmaster produced a second plate, which didn't fit either, and then a third plate, which was exactly right.

The guest of honor made a fine speech, received an ovation, then turned gratefully to the toastmaster. "It was a lucky break for me," he said, "that you happen to be a dentist."

"Dentist nothing," said the toastmaster. "I'm an undertaker."

"True humor," wrote Thomas Carlyle, "springs more from the heart than from the head. It is not contempt. Its essence is love. It issues not in laughter, but in still smiles, which lie far deeper. It is a sort of inverse sublimity, exalting into our affections what is below us, whereas sublimity draws down to our affections, what is above us."

Jersey Leaders Back Shortway

DOVER, N. J. — More than 600 northern New Jersey leaders of business, industry and government yesterday launched an intensive campaign to speed up completion of U. S. 80—a 68.3 mile interstate freeway between the George Washington Bridge and Delaware Water Gap.

Sen. Wayne Dumont, Jr., (Rep.), of Phillipsburg, and (Rep.) Parry of Mountain Lakes, industrial leader, urged in keynote speeches that Governor-Elect Richard J. Hughes and the 1962 Legislature immediately tackle the job of modernizing the state's 1940s-model highway financing program to private greatly-increased appropriations needed to meet the highway needs of the 1960 decade.

Parry is chairman of the public relations advisory committee of the Highway Information Association of New Jersey, a statewide non-partisan and non-lobbying citizens group which sponsored the five-county, regional rally here.

"We cannot progress in New Jersey in the 1960's with a 1940s-model tax system," said Sen. Dumont. "New Jersey's tremendous population growth, as well as educational requirements, which cannot possibly be met by our archaic, unsound and unfair tax structure desperately in need of revision and reform."

Parry said that the outmoded highway financing program has resulted in slowing progress toward completion of the State Highway Department's master plan to build 821 miles of modern freeways, including 376 miles of interstate highways, to meet 1975 traffic needs.

He called attention to the State Highway Department's pre-election progress report that 106 miles out of 376 miles of interstate freeways were open to traffic. He said lack of sufficient highway appropriations had made it impossible for any appreciable progress to be made on the 445 miles of non-interstate freeways also included in the master plan.

Recalling State Highway Commissioner Dwight R. C. Palmer's warning that state and federal funds would fall a billion dollars short of the required two and three quarters to three billion dollars required to complete the 1975 master plan, Parry said:

"Diversion of more than $450 million in highway user taxes collected in the state kept total state highway construction to about $600 million in the last eight years. About half of the 'funds' came from federal motorist taxes. The tempo of highway user tax diversion hits its all-time peak in the past eight years until, currently, nearly half of the annual revenue of $200 million from gasoline and motor vehicle taxes is used for other than highway purposes.

In these eight years, too, the state gasoline tax has been doubled. . . . Today the state tax of six cents and the federal gas tax of four cents makes it necessary for New Jersey motorists to pay a 50 per cent sales tax on regular gallons of gasoline."

Both Sen. Dumont and Parry also hit the failure of New Jersey to increase state aid to county roads since 1946 and to municipal streets and roads since 1953. This has resulted in increasing local property taxes despite the fact that highway user tax revenues have nearly quadrupled to the current $200 million a year rate, Parry pointed out.

During the regional meeting, Parry announced the appointment of C. Raymond Fuller, publisher of the Blairstown Press, who has served on the association's public relations committee the past year, as regional chairman to spearhead the U. S. 80 speedup drive. Fuller said he would select a delegation of leaders from Warren, Sussex, Morris, Passaic and Bergen Counties to call on Governor-Elect Hughes sometime in February to discuss an accelerated schedule for the completion of U. S. 80.

Fuller and Charles E. Noyes of Williamsport, Pa., executive director of the Keystone Shortway Association, pointed out that completion of U. S. 80 would provide an important impetus to the industrial development of northern New Jersey. They said that completion of the "shortway route" would save motorists and truckers at least 115 miles on the new 375-mile direct-line freeway from the Hudson River to the Ohio-Pennsylvania line near Sharon, Pa.

Noyes, who said Pennsylvania was moving full speed ahead on its portion of U. S. 80, urged that the New Jersey section be completed in time to handle the hundreds of thousands of motorists who will want to visit New Jersey's tercentenary celebration and the New York World's Fair in 1964.

Sen. Dumont said he hoped New Jersey's new governor would give the "highest priority" to speeding completion of not only U. S. 80 but also another key east-west, cross-state freeway, the 66.1 mile route from the Hudson Tunnel to Phillipsburg. He said 100 miles of the 135 miles of the two routes still are to be opened to traffic.

Both U. S. 80 and 78 are needed to relieve traffic strangulation and to spur industrial development and resort business, he added.

Clifford Cramer of East Stroudsburg, a director of The Keystone Shortway Assn., was among those attending the meeting.

Charges Dropped In Accident

CHARGES of leaving the scene of an accident brought against B. E. Kemmerer, 212 Lee Ave., Stroudsburg, were dismissed at a hearing before Peace Justice Floyd W. Kellogg for lack of evidence.

Kemmerer was arrested by Stroudsburg police late last Saturday after his car was involved in an accident at Third and McConnell Sts.

Kemmerer claimed he was not driving the car at the time and had no knowledge of who the operator was.

Specialists To Air Deer Management

"DEER HERD Management—Everyone's Problem" this is the theme of a meeting on the management of deer set for Wednesday, Jan. 17 at the Pocono Township School, Tannersville.

This program is presented by the Monroe County Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State Game Commission and the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

A panel of four specialists will present the following topics:

"Deer Economics"—William Carroll, extension Public Affair, Penn State Univ.

"Deer and Forestry"—Charles Strauss, assistant extension forester, Penn State Univ.

"Deer Population and Effects on Hunting"—Stanley Forbes, research biologist, Penna. Game Commission.

"Deer Management and You"—Robert Wingard, extension wildlife specialist, Penn State Univ.

Valuable Resource

A. E. Hitt, Monroe County agent, stated that the deer herd is a valuable natural resource. It furnishes recreation for hunters, provides economic returns to businessmen and resorts and is part of the scenic panorama that attracts people to the county. Since deer, like other wildlife, are a public resource there is a public responsibility to be well informed on the issues of management.

He said that since the problems are always discussed when hunters get together, it would be well if every sportsman's organization in the county would have at least one representative present.

Lehr Is Sworn In Gap Mayor

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Arthur Lehr was recently sworn in as mayor of Delaware Water Gap. He succeeds Francis Drake, Justice of the Peace M. E. Leffler administered the oath.

Others sworn were councilmen Willard Kitchen, Russell Shellenberger, Robert Hay and William Hietler.

Phillip Farber was elected president, and Mrs. Jean Davis was reappointed treasurer. Mrs. Jeannette LaBar was named secretary and Atty. C. Edward Depuy renamed borough solicitor.

Fred Decker was reappointed chief of police and superintendent of the water department.

Named to the water committee by Farber were Willard Kitchen, Fred Shoemaker, William Hietler and Russell Shellenberger. The police and fire committee is Hietler, Robert Hay, and Clifford Hauser. The street lights, parks and sidewalks committee are Shellenberger, Hauser, Shoemaker and Hietler.

In other business council voted to meet the first Monday of each month in the firehall. They also passed a resolution to offer Rim Road, on Mount Mini, to the Department of Highways to be improved and made a scenic road for tourists and citizens of the county.

Truck Jackknifes

HAWLEY — A tractor-trailer jackknifed on icy Route 6, five miles east of here, at 2:40 p.m. yesterday. No one was injured, but damage was estimated at $25,000 to $30,000.

State Police at Milford identified the driver as Emmet Doty, Middletown, N. Y. They said Doty rode the rig as it jackknifed, left the highway and overturned, but he was not hurt.

The vehicle was loaded with milk, loss of which was estimated at $8,000.

BAR MITZVAH of Larry Fleshler, left, will be held today at Temple Israel in East Stroudsburg. Rabbi Bernhard Presler who will participate in services is shown congratulating the 13-year-old.

Bar Mitzvah Ceremony Of Larry Fleshler Today

THE BAR Mitzvah ceremony of Larry Fleshler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fleshler, 1032 Chipperfield Ter., Stroudsburg, will take place this morning at Temple Israel's Sabbath services, East Stroudsburg. Rabbi Bernhard Presler will officiate and deliver the charge to the Bar Mitzvah.

Bar Mitzvah is one of the most important days in the life of a Jewish boy. The term Bar Mitzvah means "Son of Commandment." At this stage in life, he becomes responsible for observing G-d's commandments.

A Jewish boy becomes Bar Mitzvah on his 13th birthday because according to Jewish tradition, when he reaches that age he is old enough to understand the meaning and purpose of the commandments of the Jewish faith.

Prior to becoming Bar Mitzvah, the boy must undertake an intensive study of Hebrew, the principles and practices of Judaism. In most synagogues he is expected to do part of the services and read from the Prophets in the original Hebrew and in the traditional melody. It is expected that he has a good knowledge of the Bible and of the Jewish History.

At the services this morning, the youth will deliver a talk on "Meaningful Prayer," which is an outgrowth of a custom of the middle ages, where it was a custom for the boy to give a Talmudic discourse on the occasion. After the Bar Mitzvah boy delivers the talk, the Rabbi gives the charge, telling him of his obligations to his people and to all of mankind.

On the Sabbath the father and the Bar Mitzvah, are called up to say the blessings over the "Torah" (Scrolls containing the five books of Moses). The Friday evening services were conducted by Larry Fleshler and the sermon was delivered by Rabbi Presler, his topic was "From Smallness to Greatness." Following the Friday evening services, the entire congregation was invited to a reception in the social hall of the Temple.

Today Larry will read from the Prophets and deliver a talk. Rabbi Presler, Seymour Katz, President of the Temple and Mrs. Henry Reader, President of the Sisterhood, will participate in the presentations.

At the conclusion of the services a Kiddish (reception) will be held in his honor.

Nine County Youths Face Induction

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Nine Monroe County youths have been slated for induction in the January draft call while 33 other youths from the county will be called up for pre-induction physical examinations during the month, State Selective Service Headquarters said today.

The nine youths slated for induction from the county represent an increase of six over the past month's quota of three.

The 33 being scheduled for pre-induction physicals is an upswing of 13 over the number called for examinations in December.

Monroe County registrants all will come from local board 105, Stroudsburg with the nine draftees reporting to Wilkes-Barre on January 22, 28 receiving physicals reporting on January 22 and seven getting physical examinations on January 23.

Alcoholism Problems To Be Aired

"THE PROBLEM of Alcoholism" will be featured in a program on WVPO today at 1:05 p.m. The first portion of the show will feature an itinerant alcoholic who was interviewed voluntarily by Fran Shinn, of Stroudsburg.

On the second half of the program Dr. Winton H. Bevin, Director of the Institute for the Prevention of Alcoholism, Washington, D. C., will discuss problems of alcohol and its affect on our society.

Both offer interesting and contrasting points of view on a subject vitally important in today's modern living. The alcoholic says, "Some people like baseball, I like to drink."

Dr. Bevin reveals some interesting facts and shocking statistics in stating he feels alcoholism is the country's number one problem.

Four Deeds Filed At Court House

FOUR deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder:

Litts Is 40-Year Vet Of Education

By Jim Shafer
Daily Record Reporter

TEACHER, reporter, principal and county superintendent is the picture of John C. Litts during his 40-year career in education.

Litts was born in Branchville, N.J., the son of a Pike County native. He returned, with his parents, to Bushkill at the age of two.

He entered Bushkill Elementary School and after graduating came to Stroudsburg to attend Stroudsburg High School.

Litts began his teaching career March, 1921, in a one-room elementary school in Readers and remained there for two and a half years. It was while he was teaching in this school that he met and later married Leona Price. They were married Aug. 16, 1924.

His next teaching job was in Mount Pocono when it was part of Coolbaugh Township. He remained for two years as teacher—principal. From here he moved to Pocono Township where he also was the teacher—principal for three years.

Litts said, "It was somewhere along in here that I worked for the Times Democrat as a reporter. I stayed on even after The Record and the Times Democrat merged for about two years."

Litts returned to the Borough of Mount Pocono and remained for four years. Here he was an elementary teacher and the principal before accepting a position in the high school at Moscow.

"I stayed at Moscow for three years and returned to Monroe County as principal of the Stroudsburg Elementary School. I held this position for nine years, or until 1946 when I was appointed Monroe County Superintendent of Public Schools," he recalled.

He is a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Normal School, class of 1926. Litts received his bachelor of science degree in 1934 from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and then began working towards a master's degree.

Summer School Record
He attended Bucknell University for three summers and was awarded a master's in science and education in 1937.

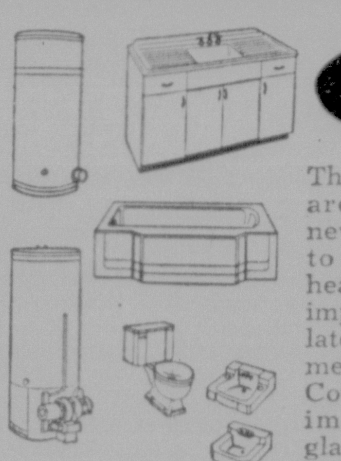

Litts started to work on a doctorate degree. He took several courses at Bucknell University and several at New York University.

He said, "I had to give up plans for the degree as my eyes started to give me a little trouble. But there is one thing that I am very proud of and that is for 20 years, from 1922 to 1942, I attended a summer school."

"I don't think there are many teachers in the county that can boast of a record like that," he concluded.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Not that I'm complaining about my aches and pains, you understand, but you'll have to admit I couldn't have picked a more inconvenient time to bruise the place I'll be sitting on all next week covering the Fashion Shows in New York.

Like an over-anxious mother, I'm always of two minds about going away — even for a week, or maybe we should make that three-quarters of a mind: one worrying about what you'll be up to without me, one sorry to miss the doings I already know are going on, and the third all excited about the prospects of something new.

The fourth quarter? Well, I was bound to lose it sometime, all the dithering I do. Since there is a world of difference between being active in a community and being just busy about it, I read a letter from Mrs. Arthur Rugh with a certain sense of shame.

Seems, Mrs. Rugh feels guilty about not taking a more active part in community doings. All she does, at 85, is paint a dozen pictures at a time, write, do her domestic chores and entertain her numerous progeny! And her friends!

Certainly she has a lot more to show for her time than I — who can't even manage to get fat on all the food you feed me. Moreover, she doesn't even complain about the rib she broke in a recent fall — and just listen to me over a few bruises.

In the midst of all the freezing mist tonight comes a copy of the Bayshore Gardens Times from Merle and Frances Ostrom in Florida. It was a marked copy calling attention to the fact that Mrs. O. J. Liljenstein is the new president of the Garden Club there.

She was president of the Monroe County Garden Club in 1954, you remember, and the Ostroms are as ready to host their neighbors in Florida as they were in Monroe County — so people don't really change. Mind that you don't while I'm gone.

Spring Garden Club Plans Bloom At Winter Luncheon

With Winter settling in earnest, the Monroe County Garden Club is getting set for Spring. The new and retiring boards held a combined luncheon on Thursday at the YMCA to plan for the new activities.

Mrs. Edgar Van Why, president, welcomed Mrs. Vernon Wallace as the new treasurer and Mrs. Raymond Price, Mrs. Thomas Shoemith and Mrs. Frank Fuller as new board members.

A revival of the all-day Garden School in April was among the plans announced by Mrs. Edgar C. Knob of the program — coordinating committee. The annual luncheon will be held in June with cards to follow. The Pennsylvania Dutch Mart will be held in September and the annual pilgrimage to Skytop Lodge in October with a special program.

Mrs. Forrest Mottis, who has been in charge of the Big Pocono Fire Tower for a number of years, will be the principal speaker at the January meeting at the YMCA on the 18th. Officers and board members will be hostesses.

Mrs. Van Why expressing her appreciation for the cooperation during her first administration named the standing committees for 1962:

Advisory: Mrs. E. R. Travis, Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin; horticulture: Mrs. A. H. Mathieson, Mrs. Edward Lawson; conservation: Mrs. Raymond Price; Birds, Co Council Of Churches To Meet Fri.

The annual dinner meeting of the Monroe County Council of United Church Women will be held Friday, Jan. 12 at 6:30 p. m. and will feature election of officers and a play.

The dinner will be held at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church. Reservations may be made with the women's organizations of the individual churches.

At the business meeting with Mrs. Claude Leister presiding, Mrs. Roger Stinson will present the slate of officers for 1962.

The play, "No Hiding Place," is being directed by Mrs. Harry Smith and will be presented in the parish hall. All church women of the county are invited.

Clearview PTA Mon.

Clearview Parent-Teachers Assn. will meet Monday night at 8 in the school gymnasium when Charles Jones executive secretary will show a film strip, "Family in Focus" dealing with a caseworker in family service helping a family solve its problems.

Jones will relate the film strip to Monroe County and its need for such a service. A question and answer period will follow.

At the business meeting, all homerooms with 100 per cent membership in the PTA will be awarded $5. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

A meeting of the executive board has been called for 7:15.

AAUW Panel Of Doctors On Program

Two husband-wife teams of doctors will discuss "Medical Practice Today" at an open meeting of the American Assn. of University Women on Monday night at 8 at the Stroud Community House.

The two women, Dr. Charlotte Jordan and Dr. Mary Hunsicker, members of the branch, will be joined by their husbands, Dr. Claus Jordan and Dr. Llewellyn Hunsicker in the wide-ranging discussion.

Dr. Charlotte Jordan will serve as moderator, outlining the changes in medical practice since the Jordans came to Monroe County 28 years ago with other members detailing changes in their specific fields.

Dr. Mary will speak on changes in dermatology and Dr. Claus on changes in the diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

Both of the Doctors Jordan received their MD's, and took their residency and specialization at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Lew Hunsicker also received his MD from the University of Pennsylvania and served his residency at Cooper Hospital in Camden, N. J. He spent two years with the U. S. Army in Japan.

Dr. Mary Hunsicker received her MD from Temple University, specialized in dermatology at the graduate school of the University of Pennsylvania, served as civilian employee with the Army in Japan as a doctor and was in general practice in Haddon Heights, N. J. before they came to the Stroudsburgs seven years ago.

Mrs. Eugene Martin will preside at the business meeting, the first to be held in the Stroud Community House since renovations were completed.

Mrs. Frank Sills and Mrs. Nicholas Stowell are co-chairmen of the hospitality committee.

Delaware Water Gap — The Women's Aux. of the Delaware Water Gap Presbyterian Church will meet Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Francis Drake not as previously announced.

Let's make music! . . . and let's make it with the newly published FRED WARING SONG BOOK that arrived on my desk Thursday afternoon with Mr. Music himself sketched upon the multi-striped cover as he might appear if he were standing before you to conduct your solo or group singing.

Arthur Widmer, manager of advertising, was the first to bounce into my office with a request to "look it over and mention it on the air and in your column, will you?" A few minutes later, Peter Wyckoff also stopped in the doorway to say, "That's a most unusual song book, Madalyn—everyone should have one, and you might tell the world so." Pete is correct . . . everyone should have one, and I'm sure many thousands of people who have 1.50 in their pockets will hurry into our stationery and music departments and stores across the country to make a purchase. As a result, the air will be filled with music . . . or, as in my particular case, what passes for music!

IF I were at home at the moment, I'd be bellowing happily at the top of my lungs . . . but, since this is an office, I am humming under my breath to the merry accompaniment of the clang and ring of my typewriter. Already I have worked my way through The Battle Hymn of the Republic and God Bless America, The Star Spangled Banner and Taps, and am about to begin This Is My Country, which I don't know very well and should skip in favor of The Cassions Song.

When I tire of patriotic tunes I can switch to such delightful folk songs as Cindy . . . When The Saints Go Marching Home . . . She'll Be Comin' Around the Mountain . . . On Top of Old Smoky, or a dozen others. I can sing songs from Other Lands: such as Ah, Marie . . . Der Musikanter . . . La Cucaracha . . . Vive L'Amour . . . or Hymns: Prayer of Thanksgiving . . . God of Our Fathers . . . Now the Day is Over . . . For the Beauty of the Earth, etc. . . Christmas Songs—a choice of twelve, one for each of The Twelve Days of Christmas, no doubt. The book contains Gang Songs too—Clementine . . . I've Been Working on the Railroad . . . Underneath the Bamboo Tree . . . The Happy Wanderer . . . a wide variety of others . . . and Popular Songs of Yesterday (and the day before) including Slumber On, My Little Gypsy Sweetheart . . . Meet Me In St. Louis . . . Toyland . . . On the Banks of the Wabash, and numerous other songs, popularized by operetta and motion picture, that are not too frequently included in song books, along with dozens that always are.

From my viewpoint as an ardent "joiner" in community sings at clubs, theatre or wherever, it is Mr. Waring's choice of songs that makes this book outstanding. Too many songbooks include the same old time-worn relics that everyone can sing without a song book, and not any of those lesser known favorites that everyone recognizes but hasn't the opportunity to try in his own gravel-tones.

The book has been compiled and arranged by Hawley Ades, who has been associated with Mr. Waring since 1937 and is regarded as one of America's most skilled arrangers of vocal music. Shawnee Press is the publisher, but, look as I might, I couldn't find the name of the illustrator. However, I consider the art work illustrating each song to be one of the book's most charming features. Another unusual feature sure to be widely appreciated by the musician is that some of the songs are set for unison singing with piano accompaniment; many are harmonized for 4-part mixed chorus, and a number also provide for part-singing by male or treble voices.

All by myself I can enjoy this song book . . . and will. But I also hope a certain club I know invests in enough copies for its membership. EVERY club should! After all, who needs a dog-eared book that was published about the time Grandfather's Clock was considered rock 'n roll!

For Man Told To Go Home, Cullen Stayed Here Long Time

By DON ALLEN
Daily Record Reporter

FOR A man who was told the first night he was in the Poconos, "Go home, you don't belong here," Thomas Vance Cullen has stayed here a long time.

The year was 1930 and Cullen had just completed his first night—and almost his last—as leader of the orchestra at Oak Grove House.

Looking back on it, Cullen believes the advice—given him by T. E. Bridger who still owns Oak Grove and Glenwood—was the best he ever received.

"I was playing for myself, not what the people wanted to hear," Cullen says today. He persuaded Bridger to give him one more chance and, after a weekend of soul searching, Cullen remained at one or the other of the resorts for nine Summers.

The 31-year-old Cullen, who now owns and operates the Top O' The Fox on Foxtown Hill, decided within a few weeks of his arrival in the Poconos that this was where he wanted to make his home.

Never Dreamed Of Future

Ironically enough, at that time he had no idea of being a professional musician and certainly never dreamed that, as a member of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, he would appear before such distinguished personalities as President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Queen Elizabeth and Nikita Khrushchev.

"I wanted to be a state cop," Cullen, recalls. And, in 1933, he enlisted in the State Police. He lasted five months—the time it took to put him through the State Police Academy at Hershey.

"It was too tough," Cullen remembers. "I made up my mind in fingerprint class that I was going to be a musician."

Actually, the decision shouldn't have been too difficult. Cullen had been working as a musician since he was 14 and played the violin for silent motion pictures on the stage of the Grove Theater in Willow Grove.

Cullen was born in Philadelphia, Jan. 24, 1910, one of 16 children of John and Frances Cullen. His education was limited to seven grades in the Philadelphia public schools and two years of instruction on the violin.

Plays 22 Instruments

He was working as a sheet metal worker when he got his right hand tangled in a saw, cutting three fingers so severely he had to lay off work for nine months.

A week before the accident, he had purchased a saxophone and he began to pick up jobs in night clubs. He was 18 at the time.

Cullen taught himself to play the saxophone, clarinet, trombone and bass viol, among others. He can play—or play at, as he would put it—a total of 22 instruments.

After his nine Summers at Oak Grove and Glenwood, Cullen moved to the Rock View Hotel, a resort at Port Jervis, N.Y., in 1940 and the following year became the orchestra leader at Waring's Shawnee Inn and Country Club.

The year 1943 found him assigned to a military police unit at Battle Creek, Mich. He later transferred to the medical corps at Valley Forge General Hospital where he claims he set a record by giving 1,043 enemas—"and I've got a certificate to prove it," he adds.

Discharged in October, 1944, he returned to Shawnee in the Summer of 1945. He led the orchestra there until 1959.

In 1956, in addition to being director of music for Shawnee, Cullen was named manager of the country club, a post he held until he resigned on Jan. 1 of last year.

He and his wife, Dolores, also operated Binnie-Kill, also at Shawnee, from 1947 through 1956 when Waring bought the resort.

Cullen joined the Pennsylvanians in 1953 and toured with them through 1959.

"Waring's A Master"

Of the Winter tours, he says they were "very monotonous—cards and getting stuck in snowstorms."

But, he hastens to add, "It was always a thrill getting on the stage. Waring's a master."

Cullen's distinguished career in music, including jam sessions with such well-known names as Sammy Kaye and Carmen Cavallaro, to say nothing of Jackie Gleason, nearly stopped before it began.

He recalls the dark day on the stage of the Grove Theater when, during intermission, he was playing a violin solo, complete with spotlight.

Suddenly, the spring holding the strings of the instrument snapped and there stood Cullen, all lit up and no place to go. "I sat down and cried," he recalls.

Cullen and his wife, whom he married in 1947, live at Shawnee with their children, Vance, 12, and Lili Martin, five. Cullen also has a daughter, Caroline, 19, by his first wife, who lives with them. His first wife died in 1946.

Lili Martin, incidentally, was born on the birthday of Cullen's mother-in-law and is named after her.

LSU Frees Dietzel To Coach Army

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Coach Paul Dietzel, Louisiana State's "golden boy" who said he'd never leave for another coaching post, got his release Friday to accept Army's glamorous top football job.

The 37-year-old Dietzel, whose Tigers roared to pinnacles of success for the past few seasons, had been the center of a smoldering sports controversy for a week. It ended Friday when the LSU Board of Supervisors unanimously voted to let Dietzel out of a five-year $18,500 contract. It had four years to go.

Earlier, the board, in a four-hour closed session, defeated 8-5 a move to reject Dietzel's application for a release. Some quarters in Louisiana felt the board should hold him to his contract.

Dietzel told an alumni banquet a few months ago:

Never Leave
"I love LSU, and I'll never leave for another coaching job." LSU signed Dietzel seven years ago when he was an assistant coach at Army.

At West Point, Col. Emory S. Adams, Army athletic director, said he was "elated" at the news. Adams said he expected Dietzel to come to West Point Saturday or Sunday.

Army, which fired Coach Dale Hall after the 1961 season, told Dietzel he'd have to get his walking papers from LSU before it took him on.

National Champs
Dietzel's Bayou Bengals copped the national championship in 1958 and won the 1962 Orange Bowl game after a 9-1 season.

Athletic Director Jim Corbett said finding a replacement for Dietzel might take some time.

Dietzel, who gave the name "Chinese Bandits" to his defensive squad—to football, took the Tigers to three bowls—the Sugar in 1959 and 1960, and the Orange in 1962. His over-all record was 42-24-3.

He coached at Army under Col. Earl (Red) Blaik three years. "In my heart," Dietzel told a news conference, "I think it (the move) was the only decision I could make."

"You can't be at West Point and not have something rub off on you. Deep in my heart, I have always wanted to be head coach at West Point. Army has a special place on the American scene as far as I am concerned."

Dietzel said he and four assistants will go to West Point Sunday to negotiate and sign a contract.

Marty Baldwin

Baldwin Quits Grid Coach Clinic Post

MARTY Baldwin of Stroudsburg, has resigned as national director of the Coach of the Year Football Clinics.

Baldwin, who is the general manager of Olympic Reconditioning in East Stroudsburg, says that the amount of travel involved in running the clinics, forced him to quit.

"It would be necessary for me to travel on nine consecutive weekends as far West as California, North to Michigan and South to Texas and Alabama as well as several in between cities," says Baldwin.

When the American Football Coaches Assn. decided to run the clinics last year, it picked Baldwin to manage the complete set-up. Baldwin selected assistants to run each clinic.

Last year's clinics drew some 5,500 high school and college coaches and this year more than 7,000 coaches are expected.

Clinic Sites
This year's clinics will be held in Birmingham, Grand Rapids, Santa Monica, Dallas, Houston, Springfield, Mass., Harrisburg, St. Louis and Raleigh.

Baldwin's successor will be named Sunday. It appears that George "Lefty" James, former Cornell University football coach will get the job. James is a past president of the coaches association.

Baldwin has been the director of the Eastern Pennsylvania Coaches Clinic, held at East Stroudsburg State College for almost 20 years.

Ice Racing Starts 6th Naomi Year

ICE Racing Enterprises opens its sixth year of sports car racing on frozen Lake Naomi Sunday at noon.

IRE executive director Skip Miller of Pocono Pines, says there will be six heats and a feature race on the opening card.

Miller expects some 80 cars, with 40 drivers already registered. Included in the field will be an Ohio driver and two women pilots, Alvina Ostrowski of Belleville, N.J. and Doty Matons of Plainfield, N.J.

Local drivers entered are Gary Smith of Cresco and Alex Coles of Shawnee. Coles won several events last season.

Class Heats
The heats will be run by four classes, with front wheel drive cars in a special bracket. In the past, front wheel cars have dominated the races.

On Sunday, Jan. 13 the Four-Hour Deep Freeze Little LeMans, the top event of the season, will be held. There will be another four-hour race on Jan. 28. The Naomi track is two and half miles long, varying in width from fifty feet to a quarter mile. It contains a one mile straight, two 90 degree turns, a fast chicane and a sweeping 180 degree turn.

Several cars have been clocked at better than 100 mph with the average speed from 60 to 85 mph.

Miller Scores 26 In League Contest

DEFENDING champion Cata-sauqua, sparked by Larry Miller's 28 points, rolled to an easy 74-48 victory over Stroud Union in Stroudsburg last night.

It was the opening Lehigh Valley League game for both teams and gives Catty a 6-4 overall mark. Stroud

Green Knights Dump Bangor Slaters 44-27

BANGOR — Pen Argyl High School overcame a first period Bangor lead Friday to hand the Slaters a 44-27 Lehigh-Northampton League defeat.

It was the fourth loss in six starts for Bangor, while Pen Argyl has a 4-4 mark. A 16-point second period put Pen Argyl well in front, although the Green Knights topped the double figure mark in only one other period, the fourth.

Bangor had 10 points in the first frame but it was the late Slaters made double figures. The losers had 14 points in the first half and 13 in the last. In the deciding second period, Bangor scored only four points.

Short Lead

Bangor led 10-7 after one period but by halftime, Pen Argyl was in front 23-14. Jeff Rader was the top scorer in the game, collecting 12 of Pen Argyl's points. Roger Snyder had 11 points for the winners and sophomore Dave Turzko bagged 10.

Only four Bangor players managed to score. Dick Snyder was high with four field goals and eight points. John Heard and Frank Holland added seven points each and Ron Bet closed out the scoring with five points.

Bangor was held to 11 field goals, while Pen Argyl had 19. The winners connected on six of 11 field goals and Bangor made good on five of 12 foul shots.

Bangor won the junior varsity game, 46-42.

Purple Aces Best Small Court Squad

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Evansville, a small school that plays basketball's big boys on about even terms, was named No. 1 Friday in the season's first Associated Press small-college basketball poll.

The AP panel of seven regional selectors put Evansville on top although the Purple Aces won only six games and lost three through last Wednesday. The defeats all were at the hands of major colleges — Purdue in a regular season game and Yale and Pittsburgh in the Evansville Holiday Tournament.

Evansville drew three of the seven first place votes and 62 points on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc. Tennessee State, with a 7-1 record, placed second with 48 points.

The top 10, with won-lost records through games of Wednesday, Jan. 3, in parentheses:

Evansville, Ind. (6-3)	63
Tennessee State (7-1)	48
Grambling, La. (12-2)	44
Prairie View (Tex.) (8-1)	43
Wittenberg (6-2)	39
Georgetown, Ky. (10-2)	30
Southern Illinois (7-2)	27
Hofstra (8-1)	21
Westminster, Pa. (8-0)	17
Mount St. Mary's (6-2)	16

Union has won two of its six games, beating Pleasant Valley and East Stroudsburg.

Miller, a sophomore, bagged 12 field goals and added four of seven free throws. In ten games, Miller has averaged 26 points.

Dennis Fehnel was the only other Rough Rider to collect more than 10 points. Fehnel had five field goals a one foul shot for 11 points.

Catty coach Bob Mushrush used 12 players in the game, with eight of them hitting the scoring column.

Loney High

Warren Loney was the top Mountaineer scorer. Loney, a senior, had 18 points on eight field goals and bagged two for two from the free throw line.

Dave Pierson was next in line in Mountie scoring with nine points, followed by Ed Nevil with eight, Glenn Bishig, seven, Danny Hill four and Henry Ray, two.

The Mounties had 20 field goals and made good on eight of 13 foul shots. Cata-sauqua had 32 field goals and 10 of 20 free tosses.

Cata-sauqua whipped in 26 points in the opening period, scoring mostly on fast breaks, as Miller controlled the backboards. The Riders added 19 points in the second period.

Stroud Union bagged 10 points in each of the first three periods but broke the strong with 18 points in the last frame. But by the time the fourth period rolled around, Catty had the game tucked away.

Cata-sauqua won the junior varsity game, 53-27.

Goalby Leads Coast Golf With 7-Under

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Goalby knocked seven strokes off par Friday for a first-round 64 in the $45,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament for the second straight year.

The 30-year-old onetime all-around athlete at the University of Illinois toured the Rancho Municipal Golf Club course in 33-1—64, one stroke shy of the tournament and course record.

The score placed him three strokes in front of his nearest competitors in the winter classic —Doug Sanders, Phil Rodgers, Tommy Jacobs and Bob Keller.

Favorites Trail

Well back at 73 were the two pre-tournament favorites, Gary Player of South Africa and Arnold Palmer.

And even farther back in his first crack at professional tournament play was the newly turned pro and 1961 National Amateur champion, Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio. The 21-year-old Nicklaus scored 38-36—74.

Four strokes back of Goalby, who won the $7,500 first prize on this same course last year, were five pros — Lionel Hebert, Fred Hawkins, Bud Holscher, Jack McGowan and Frank Wharton.

U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, Bob Rosburg, Stan Leonard and Julius Boros were in the 69 bracket.

Law's Shoulder Gets Second OK

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus orthopedic surgeon has told Pittsburgh pitcher Vernon Law he will be able to play baseball this season.

Dr. Judson Wilson confirmed the findings of two Pittsburgh specialists. He told the Pirates' ace right-hander the injured shoulder, which put him on the disabled list last July, will be as strong as ever after some prepping training exercises.

Wrestling, Swimming Too

Warriors Meet Mansfield Tonight In Highlight Of Sports Spectacular

EAST Stroudsburg State College stages its first athletic triple-header of the winter sports season today.

The Warriors face Millersville in wrestling and swimming in the afternoon and in the evening take on Mansfield in basketball. The wrestling starts at 1:30, with swimming at 2 and basketball at 8 p. m. It will actually be a four-star attraction with a junior varsity basketball game at 6:30.

Mansfield, which is unbeaten in five starts, is ninth in the nation in small college offense, averaging 88.6 points a game. The Mountaineers, who won the Pennsylvania State College Conference title last year, are led by senior Dick DiBasso, who is averaging 21 points a game.

East Stroudsburg's top scorer is Russ Hopewell, who is hitting an average of 23.4 a game. Hopewell, a senior, is ranked 42nd in the nation in scoring. Hopewell is second on the club in rebounds with 27. Will Peiffley is the leading Warrior rebounder, snagging 34. Stroudsburg's Tom Gross is in third position. Gross has hauled in 27.

Three In Row

East Stroudsburg has a 3-2 mark, winning its last three in a row, after losing to Scranton and Philadelphia Textile.

The wrestlers will be taking part in their second meet. The Warriors beat Lincoln 15-12. Millersville had won both of its starts, whipping Lincoln and Howard. Millersville's top wrestler is Walt Kottenmyer, who won the 177 pound conference crown last year. Freshman Joe Mucka will go against Kottenmyer.

The rest of the Warrior lineup has George Kaval at 123; Tom Gleason at 130; Fred O'Connor at 137; Tom Hoops at 147; John Topher, 157; Dick Bell, 167 and John Skiptunas, heavyweight.

Coach Frank Grimm's swimmers will be opening their season today. The tankers posted an 8-1 mark last year, losing only to West Chester.

The squad is strong in almost every event. Included in the returning letter winners are Dennis Pistoll, who holds the 50-yard freestyle school record, diver John Jacob, co-captains Lee Gillette and Joe Warne, Steve Roethke and Gary Balliet. Other veterans are John Becker in the breaststroke and B o b Fraim, a butterfly performer.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Saturday, January 6, 1962
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — What you can do to make things a bit better, try to, but don't expect to say "no." Recognize it. Overactivity tempts now, so do unwise pleasures. Take care.
April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Planet Venus, among others, now urges closer survey and knowledge of details before taking new or possible change for better, stressed these days.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Study your personal economics, the procedures you normally take. What revised measures could help? Listen, read, ask questions. But do not be uncertain in practice.
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Here you can spread out more. Yet take pitfalls and unlikely, but their happenings into consideration. Be steady, consistent, and not anxious or you may show away before reforms.
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Aspire, and keep aspirations high. Be practical, too. They go together well. Have thoughtful purpose back of efforts, and forget past annoyances. Old friendships honored.
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Pursue, but with measured step. Never let desires and goals soar beyond the reasonable or sensible for the moment. Plan place too much value on prestige; forethought saves.
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — With affection beaming in one eye, and calculation shining out of the other, you can head day down satisfying road. Chances, risks, adventure, in sane doses, well-scorped, please.
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Stand watch, out for problem-makers in disguise. Some heat side-stepping in order. It takes two to this. Do not fight. You are diplomatic, none will develop. Romance rates.
November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Be careful not to take a one-sided look or assume success before confirmed. Your analytical abilities competent to effect such assumptions. Formulate basic plans.
December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Use all worthy facilities within reach. Expedient that heretofore exists in cooperative ventures. Weekend activities occupy your mind. Fine provided you don't overwork.
January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Use initiative where to expend energies today? Finish essentials. Be selective in bargaining this period. Look beneath surface glitter before investing.
February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Step in efforts, as indicated by your ruling planet, Neptune. Mix with friendly folk who exhibit good knowledge. Increase your desire to achieve. News of good cheer likely.
MAY BEYOND TODAY — As guided by the planet Sun, yours is generally a quiet, serene, undisturbed nature. This does not mean to remain static in your environment. You like to travel, see new places, learn new things. Being practical and economical, you can evaluate the worth of an offered proposition. Make excellent decisions, for frugality and conscientious effort are your strong assets. Ambition rightly directed, can lead to heights beyond the reach of the unimaginative and unproductive. Yours is an outgoing personality, even though subtle. Others delight in being humored among your friends. Birthdate of: Carl Sandburg, Amer. poet; Hans Ranner, Amer. statesman; Lorena Young, actress.

RACING ON THE ICE SUNDAY

• AT NAOMI LAKE, POCONO PINES • OVER 75 CARS ENTERED! •

- 12 Noon till 4:00 P.M.
- Six 25-mile sprint races
- The Big Event—A 65-mile Feature Race

"Racing on the rocks" is how one national magazine humorously described the Grand Circuit ice races on Naomi Lake in Pocono Pines. The races—which begin tomorrow and will take place every Sunday—take place on a 2 1/2-mile course on the frozen lake. And spectators are assured they will see one of the most thrilling and unusual automobile races in the world. Cars skim over the slick surface at speeds in excess of 80 mph. Drivers from all over bring their cars to compete and this unique race has already attracted the attention of television, newspapers, magazines and movie makers throughout the world. Some of the cars competing are featured by local dealers listed below. So for some good fun and great thrills, bundle up the family and head for the ice races tomorrow!
